

Christian Garcia writes and edits non-fiction, specializing in books of biography, history and spirituality. He just completed the editing of a book of letters, "Now and Always," written between his maternal grandparents, Joseph Bradford Lancaster and Amanda Doerr Lancaster from 1901 to 1916. Chris is the author of "U.S. Economics: 1700-1860," ©2011, and "U.S. Economics: 1861-1941," ©2011, both published by Benchmark Education Company, Pelham, NY. He also has written leveled readers for elementary school publishers and has edited numerous elementary and middle school textbooks in all subject areas. He lives in Greenville, North Carolina, and is a proud native of Louisiana, where he grew up in Covington.
